

From: Luckypuppy12@aol.com@inetgw
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/29/02 12:04am
Subject: Netscape sues Microsoft

Netscape sues Microsoft

Netscape a company backed by AOL time Warner sues Microsoft on account of illegal bundling. AOL is more interested in dominating the communications industry than in Microsoft pay money. If we take a close look at what AOL already owns like HBO, Time, Warner Brothers, New line cinema we notice that they do not dominate in communications, and that all P.C. already come with Microsoft , so really there is no point in using AOL when you already have Microsoft. They plan to sue Microsoft so that bundling will stop and sometime in the future they will have a chance in the software field.

This case is really about AOL securing it's place in the future. Truth be told no one needs AOL or Netscape. Microsoft is just trying to make Internet use more accessible.

Carnegy and his ability to make steel faster and more accessible to railroads did the same thing that Microsoft has done with the Internet. Rockefeller once said that ,
"Much that one man cannot do alone two can do together." Windows and Microsoft have done together what one man alone cannot do.

Bundling may be found illegal but Microsoft intentions are just in wanting to make the Internet more accessible to the public.

